INDIAN TROOPS UNDER ORDERS FOR SURABAYA

THREE battalions of the 23rd Indian Division are sailing from Malaya "as soon as possible"—probably to-day—to occupy the Great Dutch East Indies naval base of Surabaya, largest city in Java, it was learned yesterday in Singapore, says Reuter.

Latest reports states that Indonesian Nationalists are in full control of the town. A British minesweeper is standing off the port.

A British convoy arrived off Semarang last night.

WANT RECOGNITION

The leaders of the self-styled "Indonesian Republic" have decided after two days' deliberation to ask for international recognition of their Government and a seat at the Peace Conference. Stating that they wished to work with all peoples for the construction of a new world system based on democracy, the "Central National Committee of the Indonesians Republic" called upon all Indonesians to give full facilities to Allied Occupation Forces in the "completion of their task of disarming the Japanese and recovering Allied prisoners-of-war."

Bandoeng Radio yesterday broadcast a statement, signed by the Vice-President of the "Indonesian Republic," declaring "the Dutch brand of autonomy is unacceptable. We want no imposition of a Dutch queen over us."

The Republicans, he said, had made five suggestions to Lt.-Gen. Sir Philip Christison, Allied Commander in the Netherlands East Indies. They were: No more Dutch troops to be landed in Indonesia; all Dutch troops to leave the country; the Dutch civil administration to remain inactive; the present Republican administration to be recognised until the question is reviewed by a world authority; the Allied Army of Occupation to confine itself to the recovery of all prisoners-of-war and the disarmament of the Japanese.

An Associated Press cable from Batavia states that the Indonesian Nationalist Government yesterday flatly turned down the Dutch proposal of partnership in the Netherlands Empire. A statement declared that many years of bloodshed and bitter fighting will ensue if the Dutch attempt to take the colony by force of arms.

Irish Delegate To I.L.O. Defends Position

Mr. William O'Brien, Irish workers' delegate to the Conference of the International Labour Organisation, stated in Paris yesterday that the Congress of Irish Trade Unions—of which he is a member—was "the most representative organisation of Irish workers," and accordingly was entitled to represent Irish Labour at the Conference.

The British Workers' Group had protested against the appointment of Mr. O'Brien as a workers' delegate, and of Mr. Cathal O'Shannon as a workers' adviser.

Mr. O'Brien said that the protest was a result of the rift in Irish Labour organisations, which had reached its climax at the World Trades Union Conference. The majority of the Irish unions had withdrawn from the Irish Trades Union Congress, and had formed a new "Congress of Irish Trade Unions." Since this new organisation was now the "most representative," the Irish Minister for Industry and Commerce was bound by the rules of the I.L.O. to appoint its representatives to attend the conference.

The protest of the British group has still to be considered by the Conference Credentials Committee. —(Associated Press.)

Hitler's Meeting With King Leopold

M. Achille Van Acker, the Belgian Premier, last night, stated in a communiqué that a document received by the Belgian Government from the U.S. military authorities, containing the minutes of King Leopold's meeting with Hitler at Berchtesgaden in 1940, had been communicated to the party leaders.

Negotiations Stopped In Dockers' Strike

After talking for five hours on the dockers' strike deadlock, the union representatives and port employers announced in London last night that they would not continue their discussion on the union claim until the dockers returned to work. The employers called attention to a clause in the constitution of the National Joint Council, which ruled that there should be no stoppage of work pending negotiations.

Meanwhile, the general strike position is unchanged, though work was resumed at North Shields.

Mr. Tom Powell, unofficial strike leader, would not comment on the Joint Council's discussion until the strikers meet to-day.

Mr. Isaacs, Minister of Labour, went to Buckingham Palace last night to report to the King on the latest position of the strike.

PENALISING ARMY DESERTERS DENOUNCED AS "UNCHRISTIAN"

AN Emergency Powers Order, which Dr. O'Higgins described as "brutal, inhuman and un-Christian," occupied much of the attention of the Dail at yesterday's sitting.

The Order, which was made last August, deprives men who deserted from the Army during the emergency certain privileges in civil life, such as the right to work on schemes promoted by the Government or by public bodies.

Dr. O'Higgins, in denouncing the Order—Emergency Powers (362), 1945—and calling for its annulment, expressed the view that it had been made with the object of penalising men who had joined the armies of the United Nations. In effect, he said, it sentenced these men to seven years' starvation.

The motion was declared lost without a division.

Dr. O'HIGGINS said that the Order referred to deserters who had been absent for a period of 180 days. This was a very tiny country, but they had in it very efficient service—intelligence services, secret service agents and an efficient police force. It would be unbelievable that with all that machinery at the disposal of the State any deserter could be absent for 180 days without being taken into custody and dealt with. It was because of those circumstances, he said, the Order was not there to punish deserters, but a special class of deserters.

He would not challenge any action taken to deal with deserters in the ordinary way. The country had gone through five years of the greatest war the world had ever seen, and all the time they had deserters and dealt with desertion, and waited until the war was over to bring out an Order that sentenced a small unfortunate section of deserters to seven years' destitution and starvation.

DRIVEN TO EXILE

They laid it down in the Order that those men who had returned should get no work whatever under the State or local authorities, or any board or department established by Parliament. They were condemning the men to absolute destitution in a Christian country, and under a Constitution that was festooned with phrases about Christianity, God, etc.

He was moving the annulment of the Order because it was a most brutal, inhuman, and un-Christian Order. Nobody with any humanity or Christianity in his make-up would stand for a punishment of that kind for men who had fought their way from battlefield to battlefield, and brought assistance to imprisoned and tortured priests. Could they do nothing better for those men than to say they were to go through the horrors of Belsen? He held that the Order was illegal, unconstitutional and un-Christian.

"This is an Order," said Dr. O'Higgins, "designed and aimed at one particular section of deserters. It is not to punish them for desertion, but to punish them for services elsewhere and services abroad."

EIRE'S NEIGHBOURS

Now that the war was over, Eire should try to cultivate friendly relations with her neighbours. Her whole attitude had been misunderstood and distorted during the war to the detriment of the country. They should not now be supplying fresh fuel for the flames.

"It is an Order stimulated by malice, seething with hatred, and oozing with venom," said Dr. O'Higgins. "The Minister knows who grew rich on the sacrifices and hardships and sufferings of others. We got untold wealth because the war passed us by. The least we can do is to be charitable and understanding to the men who went through the flames of that war, who met danger at far distant points and bent it down and crushed it there."

Mr. P. McGILLIGAN (F.G.) formally seconded.

EFFECT OF THE ORDER

DR. O'HIGGINS'S motion seeks the annulment of an Emergency Powers Order made by the Government, and dated August 8th, 1945.

The Order dismisses from the Defence Forces any non-commissioned officer and private of the Forces and the Reserve who, on August 9th, 1945, had deserted, or was absent without leave for 180 days or more.

Any soldier so dismissed automatically forfeits:

His pay and allowances for his period of absence or desertion;

His service pension and gratuity; and

Procedure Challenged

Mr. R. WALSHE (F.F.) said that he had never listened in the House to a speech which seemed to be more deliberately intended to do the maximum harm to this country. Dr. O'Higgins's speech, he said, deliberately misconstrued the Order.

Mr. M. MORAN (F.F.) said he was rather surprised that Dr. O'Higgins did not advocate pensions for deserters.

"BLACKLISTED"

Mr. F. COOGAN (F.G.) said nothing was clearer from the statement of Dr. O'Higgins than that his quarrel was with the procedure laid down in Order 362, that the Army was not allowed to deal with deserters. The Army authorities would not deal with deserters, but, instead, they would be "blacklisted," not only for State employment, but by local authorities, the E.S.B., Coras Iompar Eireann, the Irish Sugar Company, and every company set up by an Act of the House. Not only did they prevent them obtaining such employment, but they went farther and said their dismissal from the Army should not be a discharge for the purpose of unemployment benefit.

The effect of the Order would be to promote bad blood between this country and its neighbours. The Minister was not applying military discipline to these men by depriving them of their civil rights for a period of seven years, and that was the great objection he had to this Order.

"That is entirely unconstitutional," said Mr. Coogan, and the Order is ultra vires for that very reason."

Mr. H. COLLEY (F.F.) said that it was something new in the annals of history to receive with open arms soldiers who deserted the Irish Army to join the army of a country which might have been in conflict with their own.

Mr. J. LARKIN (Lab.) said the view on his benches was that the Order should stand. Neither in principle nor in practice could desertion be condoned. There were certain features of the Order which he did not like, but they would vote against the motion.

Mr. SEAN McCARTHY (F.F.) characterised the motion as a vindictive one.

MINISTER'S REPLY

Mr. TRAYNOR, the Minister, described Dr. O'Higgins's speech as a gross exaggeration. Any of the cases of courtmartial dealt with during the emergency were dealt with in the severest possible manner—so severe that in many cases deputies made representations to him to have the sentences reduced. A lot of play had been made in it.

respect of the question of why the Army did not deal with those cases and why they should be dealt with through the medium of the Order.

There were 4,020 men involved in this whole business, said the Minister. We could, if we wished, have maintained the position which obtained before Deputy O'Leary asked his question in the Dail, and we could have insisted that every man who came back to this country was arrested immediately on landing, and then would arise the question of his courtmartial. In the meantime, if the 4,000 people concerned made up their minds to return they would place a burden on the Army which the Army would find impossible to deal with, and it was not worth the trouble."

THE PUNISHMENT

"We are only depriving these men, first of all, of any of the emoluments which the men loyal to the Army were entitled to, and also of the chance of securing employment in any concern in which the Government may have an interest. Why are we doing that? We are doing it because of the 40,000 men who gave loyal service to this nation, and we are going to see, as far as these appointments go, they will go to men who gave loyal service to this nation in a time of peril

"There is no question, good, bad or indifferent, of vindictiveness entering into this question," declared the Minister.

The Minister said there was no deprivation of unemployment assistance for deserters. They would not get the benefits received by men who gave loyal service to the nation, but the only thing they would be deprived of, and rightly so, was the privilege of obtaining work in any Government schemes.

GENERAL MULCAHY (F.G.) said he objected to the Order issued at it was an Emergency Order issued at the tail-end of an emergency, and was in conflict with the attitude of the Army authorities to desertion when they were dealing with it in the most serious part of the emergency. The Order also discriminated between officers and men and between the punishments to be suffered by those who were caught or gave themselves up, or those who were not. It did not leave to the ordinary military code of law the decision whether the circumstances were so grave that a man, because of his desertion, should lose a pension earned by him by long service.

CAPTAIN P. GILES (F.G.) said that 99 per cent. of Fianna Fail members wanted Britain and America to win, but were too cowardly to admit it.

Woman Must Return To Eire

Colonel Martin Lindsay (C., Solihull), asked the Home Secretary, in the House of Commons yesterday, why the Immigration Office had ordered a woman, particulars of whom had been sent to him, domiciled in Northern Ireland, to leave the Kingdom immediately, where she had four sons and a daughter resident, and in which her husband had been authorised to accept employment.

Mr. Chuter Ede—Colonel Martin Lindsay appears to have been misinformed as to this lady's domicile, which is Eire, and not Northern Ireland. She was allowed to come here for a limited period for employment, which she has now given up, and seeks to settle here with members of her family. I have carefully considered the circumstances of the case, and have come to the conclusion that, as the permitted stay of this lady has expired, she must comply with the conditions on which she was allowed to come here, and must return to her husband and four young children in Eire. (Laughter.)

Lorry Owners Seek Petrol Supplies

The question of petrol supplies and other matters were discussed when a deputation representing the Merchant Lorry Owners' Association met an official from the Department of Supplies in Dublin yesterday. At the annual general meeting of the Association, held later, it was stated that the deputation had been told that petrol supplies in the country were no greater now than in the past. It was hoped, however, the deputation had been told, that with the gradual increase of imported motor vehicles a corresponding increase of petrol might be granted.

Mr. M. McGuire, Limerick, and Mr. James Camden, Boyle, Co. Roscommon, were elected chairman and vice-chairman respectively of the Association.

British Banks Cut Interest Rate

The British Government has decided to make a drastic cut in interest repayment on its short-term borrowings, and bankers announced last night that, due to this heavy reduction in their interest receipts, no interest will in future be paid on current accounts. All existing arrangements, it is stated, will be terminated on November 30th.

Maximum interest on deposits will be one-half per cent. per annum, and existing contracts for a higher rate will be terminated.

Survey Flights End

The American World Airways third Skymaster survey plane arrived at Rineanna at 12.30 p.m. yesterday, after a twelve-hour flight from Gander, Newfoundland.

Piloted by Capt. C. Dyer, the aircraft carried a crew of fifteen, including a number of observers. This is the Pan-American Co.'s last survey plane, and the regular commercial flights are expected to begin on Sunday next.

The Skymaster left Rineanna at 4.15, on its way to Prestwick, Ayrshire, where it will stay overnight. From Prestwick it will go to Hurn, Hampshire, and it will return to Rineanna to-morrow afternoon.

Fined for Describing Premises as Hotel

A fine of £1, with £2 2s. 0d. costs, was imposed on David Noonan in the Dublin District Court, yesterday, for wrongly describing his premises, 21 Upper Ormond Quay, as a hotel in August, 1945, in contravention of the Tourist Traffic Act, 1939.

In a similar summons against Thomas Walsh in respect of 23 Ellis Quay, formerly known as the Munster Hotel, District Justice Mangan applied the Probation Act on defendant undertaking to pay £2 2s. 0d. costs.

NO "BIG THREE" MEETING CONTEMPLATED

PRESIDENT TRUMAN yesterday told his Press conference, says Reuter, that no new "Big Three" meeting was contemplated "to settle the stalemate which developed from the Foreign Ministers' Conference in London."

Asked if Marshal Stalin had sent him any communication, President Truman said that the only message he had received was a formal one dealing with correspondence sent some time ago and having nothing to do with the present situation.

Questioned on the departure of the Soviet Ambassador, Mr. Gromyko, for Moscow soon after arriving from London, President Truman said he "presumed Mr. Gromyko was in Washington on personal business."

President Truman declared himself in favour of "letting the Japanese people themselves determine the Emperor's fate in a free election." Questioned on Press reports that General Chiang Kai-shek had advocated this to the late President Roosevelt, he said he knew nothing on the subject, but thought it was a good plan. The President also disclosed that regarding the situation in the Far East, consultation was not limited to the "Big Five," but to some ten or twelve countries.

MINISTER "WASHING HIS HANDS"

REPLYING to the debate, Dr. O'HIGGINS said that the Minister's speech was an outstanding example of muddled thinking. In the main, the Order applied to the men who went abroad, and not to the men who remained at home. His reason for objecting to the Order was that the Army and the Minister were washing their hands of their own responsibility. If the ordinary Act that had applied for twenty years had operated, no objection would have been raised. The Order, in effect, asked the public boards of Ireland to punish Army deserters.

They had been told that four thousand soldiers were absent for more than 180 days. How many more thousands had left and had not been captured. He thought there was something to be investigated if there was such slack control that apparently tens of thousands, out of a small Army of 40,000, could "hook it" and four thousand remain uncaptured.

The MINISTER said that he stated that the four thousand were affected by the Order.

7,000 DESERTERS

Dr. O'HIGGINS asked how many were there who were not 180 days absent.

Mr. TRAYNOR said that the total number of deserters was around the seven thousand mark. Of these the balance had been dealt with in the ordinary way, and the other four thousand were the people affected by the Order. There were not tens of thousands affected at all.

Continuing, Dr. O'HIGGINS said that four thousand of the seven thousand were to be penalised, and the other three thousand were not. He presumed that in the four thousand there were those individuals who gave service in other armies. Their punishment was not because of the oath they had broken, but because they served elsewhere.

Mr. TRAYNOR—That is your own imagination.

Dr. O'HIGGINS said that he thought this was the only case in history where the army reneged its duties, and where the Minister ran away from his responsibilities, and asked various public bodies to do his job for him. Whatever the offence was it should be dealt with by military men, and punishment meted out to fit the crime. This was a slap-dash Order that applied equally to all, without any examination into the merits of the case.

PERON GIVEN AUTHORITY IN ARGENTINE

A STRIKE of 500,000 members of the General Confederation of Workers of Argentine, in support of Col. Juan Peron, yesterday, virtually halted industrial and commercial activity throughout the country, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Buenos Aires, quoted in a Reuter report from New York.

President Farrell yesterday handed back political and governmental authority to Col. Peron and appointed General Molina as War Minister and Rear-Admiral Pantin as Minister of Marine. He also appointed Dr. Juan Cooke as Foreign Minister, the post which he held before Col. Peron's resignation. General Sosa replaces General Avalos, who led the military rising against Col. Peron last week, and Admiral Pantin replaces Admiral Lima, who was reported to have been responsible for Col. Peron's arrest and removal. General Avalos and Admiral Lima had been acting as a two-man Cabinet since the resignation of all the civilian members of the Government last Friday.

Rail Transport Not to be Ousted by the Road

THE impression that Coras Iompair Eireann was seeking to develop road transport at the expense of the railway was altogether erroneous, said Mr. A. P. Reynolds, chairman of the company, speaking to a deputation from the Irish Retail Traders' Protective Association at a conference held at Kingsbridge Station yesterday. The deputation was led by Mr. A. C. McLoughlin, general secretary of the Association. The main objective was the provision of efficient, cheap transport, whatever form it took.

The branch railway lines which have been closed down in consequence of emergency conditions will be reopened immediately the fuel situation permits, said Mr. Reynolds.

The company, the deputation was informed, did not propose to use the present position to perpetuate the closing of branch lines; the policy in regard to them would be based on national considerations. Nothing, however, would be done in an arbitrary fashion.

Explaining the difficulties still being experienced in regard to fuel and rolling-stock, Mr. Reynolds said that it would not be possible to reopen any one branch before the others, and a general reopening would not be entertained until there was a reasonable guarantee of a continuity of sufficient fuel supplies. When questions of reorganisation arose later, the views of the community in any area would be considered fully before any action was taken.

Representatives from Clifden were informed that the question of road freight rates obtaining in Connemara would be considered by officials of the company.

Appreciation of the assistance given by the Association, and the exchange of views, and of the reasonable manner in which the subject was approached by the members of the deputation, was expressed by Mr. Reynolds, after thanks had been extended to him, on the proposal of Mr. McLoughlin.

The deputation included:—The Rev. William English, Adm., Cashel; Messrs. P. J. Sheehan, managing director, Kanturk Hosiery Co.; O'Keeffe, manager, North Cork Co-Operative Creamery, Kanturk; S. O'Beirne, Scarriff; John Feehan, Cashel; F. Phillips, Cashel; J. Mannion, Clifden; T. Joyce, Clifden; T. G. Daly, Kanturk; M. O'Connor, Cashel; F. Loughman, T.D., Tipperary; A. Fogarty, T.D., Tipperary; O. Bourke, Kanturk; C. O'Flynn, Newmarket; C. O'Shea, Newmarket, and J. O'Keefe, Kanturk.

RATE OF INTEREST ON LOAN TO CORPORATION CRITICISED

GENERAL RICHARD MULCAHY (F.G.) moved in the Dail yesterday that it was contrary to the public interest that the Minister for Local Government should sanction an arrangement under which "the Bank of Ireland will charge the Dublin Corporation, and the Dublin Corporation will pay to the Bank, interest at as high a rate as three-and-a-quarter per cent. on a loan intended for the provision of houses."

He said that he was assuming that no loan for housing purposes would be offered to the public at a higher rate than three per cent., and he was arguing that, in such circumstances, a rate substantially less than three per cent. should be paid to the banks.

If £1,250,000 were spent on housing, subsidised by the people, he went on, it would mean an annual loss of £4,166 to the banks, but if the banking system lent £1,250,000 the banks would make a net profit of £25,000. If the Dublin Corporation was allowed to go to the banks, instead of going to the people, then, instead of the banking system losing £4,166 a year, it would be making £20,883.

Mr. SEAN MacENTEE, Minister for Local Government, said that the motion represented a rash and fool-hardy attempt to overthrow what had been an accepted policy—that lenders should be free to lend, and people who had property be free to dispose of it.

"Would I be justified," asked the Minister, "in holding up the housing programme of the Dublin Corporation only on the grounds, as suggested by Deputy Mulcahy, that if the money were raised in some other way the bank would get a little less?" In the motion, he declared, he was asked to impede the efforts of the Dublin Corporation and condemn people to live in slums a little longer.

The motion was defeated without a division.

The House adjourned until 3 o'clock on Wednesday next.

Tubercle Bacillus Research

The investigation conducted by the Medical Research Council of Ireland into the chemotherapy of tuberculosis has produced up-to-date a series of new chemical substances. These have the general character of branched-chain fatty acids, and although they are very active in inhibiting the growth of the tubercle bacillus in the test-tube, their activity is enormously reduced in the presence of blood. It is, therefore, doubtful if these substances will be effective in the treatment of tuberculosis, but investigation of these and other substances is proceeding actively.

The research is being carried out on the chemical side by Dr. Vincent C. Barry, assisted by Mr. Dermot Twomey, M.Sc., in University College, Dublin, and by Dr. P. A. McNally on the bacteriological side in Trinity College Dublin. The director of the work is in the hands of the Chemotherapy Committee of the Medical Research Council of Ireland.

Stormont Minister Objects To Recruitment from Eire

IN the Northern Ireland House of Commons last night, Mr. E. Warnock, Minister of Home Affairs, was asked several questions about his decision not to renew the residence permits of persons from Eire who are living in Northern Ireland.

The Minister admitted the great inconvenience that would be caused in many homes by the abrupt discontinuance of permits in the case of domestic servants. He was reluctant to add to the difficulties of housewives, but it must be realised, he said, that domestic service absorbed a considerable amount of female labour, and he would not like to contemplate a perpetuation of the habit of recruitment from across the border. At the moment the supply of domestic labour was short, and for the next few months he would give favourable consideration to applications for renewals of permits.

MINISTER DISAGREES

The Minister disagreed with the suggestion by Mr. Cahir Healy, that more people from Northern Ireland were working in Eire than Eire people in Northern Ireland.

Replying to Mr. T. C. Campbell, Mr. Warnock said that the Order applied to people from Great Britain as well as to people from Eire, but there were comparatively few from Britain. He did not propose to deport any person simply on the grounds of Irish birth. A permit would be withheld in every case where there was a Northern Ireland person for the job.

More Demands From U.S.A.

British quarters in Washington, states Reuter's special correspondent, attach considerable significance to the disclosure yesterday of demands which America is to make on the British Empire at the Communications Conference in Bermuda, in November. It can be stated authoritatively, he says, that the American delegation to the conference will demand—

Abolition by the British Commonwealth of all communications monopolies outside their own territories; abolition of all preferential cable rates, such as the Empire penny-a-word Press rate; adoption by all members of the conference—which will include all the British Empire countries and U.S.A.—of uniform low rates, with the right to send at these rates between any of the countries concerned; a concession by which the United States can send cables to all points in the British Empire by the most expeditious routes; continued extension to the United States of British Commonwealth wireless facilities granted to the U.S. authorities during the war.

British quarters consider that these demands illustrate the state of mind among American officialdom, and tend to confirm the belief that, although at the present trade and financial talks the U.S. delegation has relaxed its unqualified demand regarding Empire preference, it is now seeking some other concession which the British delegation cannot find its way to make.

Suicide Verdict on Dublin Soldier

At the resumed inquest at Middleton, Lancashire, yesterday, on the body of Private Michael Thomas Hanlon (32), Lower Wellington street, Dublin, a British soldier who was found hanged at Stakehill Military Detention Barracks on October 5th, the Coroner found that the deceased man had committed suicide.

No criminal act of which he could take cognisance had occurred at the camp, said the Coroner, and there was insufficient evidence to show the state of Hanlon's mind. Witnesses, he said, had divided themselves into two classes—detained soldiers and N.C.O.s—and there seemed to have been a kind of feud.

Black-out in Dublin

Dublin had a sudden, unexpected black-out at about 11 o'clock last night when electricity supply failed over a large area of the city. Houses and restaurants were plunged in darkness and the street lights failed.

A fault developed in the main switchboard at Bedford row, and almost half of the entire city was left in darkness.

In many city restaurants patrons continued their meals by candle-light, and candles were used at Harcourt Street Station when the failure of the lights happened to coincide with the rush for the eleven o'clock train.

Lighting was restored in almost all areas before midnight.

"Hierarchy of Nazidom" For Trial Next Month

A 35,000-WORD indictment against 24 major Nazi war criminals was filed yesterday in Berlin at the first public session of the International Tribunal. It unmasks humanity's greatest calendar of crime, says a P.A. correspondent.

Four nations — Britain, U.S.A., Russia and France — have drawn up a terrible catalogue, "accusing the hierarchy of Nazidom of conspiring for 25 ears to rule the world, and, in pursuit of that mad ambition, of fostering the theory of racial supremacy, violating international law, engaging in total war, and of responsibility for the murder and torture of many millions of people."

Major-Gen. Nikitchenko, Russia's chief judge, who presided, disclosed that in addition to the 24 major individual defendants, the prosecution would seek to have branded as criminal the following organisations:—The Reich Cabinet, Leadership Corps of the Nazi Party, the S.S., the Gestapo, the S.A. and the General Staff and High Command of the German armed forces. The President announced that Lord Justice Lawrence would preside at the trial at Nuremberg next month.

Indictments are scheduled to be served upon the defendants in custody at Nuremberg. They will be notified that they must be ready for trial within 30 days, and that "no delays will be permitted."

"Promptly after the serving of the indictments the Tribunal will fix and announce the date of the trial at Nuremberg, General Nikitchenko said.

DEFENDANTS

ALL PARTICIPATED

The first part of the indictment alleges that all the defendants, with divers other persons, participated as leaders, organisers, instigators or accomplices in the formulation or execution of a common plan, or conspiracy to commit, or which involved the commission of, crimes against peace, war crimes, and crimes against humanity, and were individually responsible for their own acts and for all acts committed by any persons in the execution of this plan.

The indictment traces step by step the growth of the Nazi Party, the spread of the racial superiority doctrine, and the subjection of the German nation to totalitarian control.

The first of the accused persons to be mentioned individually is Goering, who is named as the instigator of the concentration camps. Rosenberg, Ley and Streicher are named in connection with the propagation of the "master race" theory, regarding which, it is declared: "The extent to which the conspirators succeeded in their purpose can only be estimated. But the annihilation was substantially complete in many localities of Europe.

"Of the 9,600,000 Jews who lived in the parts of Europe under Nazi domination, it is estimated conservatively that 5,700,000 have disappeared, most of them deliberately put to death by the Nazi conspirators.

"Only remnants of the Jewish population of Europe remain."

WAR-INEVITABLE

There follows a detailed recital of the breach of treaties and secret rearmament, and a picture is given of the conspirators meeting in May, 1939, to review the balance sheet of their achievements and of their decision that "further successes could not be achieved without war and bloodshed."

From crimes against peace the conspirators turned to crimes in war, and a grim list of familiar scenes of horror — Belsen, Buchenwald, Dachau—is cited in the charges. The most searing indictment comes in the Russian section of the charges.

About 1,500,000 persons were exterminated in Maidenek concentration camp and about 4,000,000 in Auschwitz. In the Lwow regions the Germans exterminated about 700,000 Soviet people.

In the Leningrad region there were shot and tortured over 172,000 persons, including over 20,000 killed by the barbarous artillery barrage and the bombings.

The final section of the general charges relating to the plundering of occupied countries, "leaving millions to starve," debasing of local currency and the looting and destruction of works of art.

Russia claims that the Nazis destroyed or severely damaged 1,710 cities and more than 70,000 villages and hamlets, more than 6,000,000 buildings, and made homeless about 25,000,000 persons.

SECRET ORDER

A secret order of the chief of the naval staff to his staff officers reads: "The Führer has decided to erase from the face of the earth St. Petersburg (Leningrad). We are not interested in preserving even a part of the population of this large city."

Yesterday's formal session of the Tribunal was held in the courtroom where Germans involved in the bomb plot against Hitler last year were sentenced to death.

The courtroom was crowded with Allied servicemen, a few German civilians, journalists of the four major Powers and of Germany, the prosecutors and their assistants and a large staff of interpreters, says Reuter.

Sir Hartley Shawcross, the British Attorney-General, addressing the Court on behalf of all the prosecutors, said the indictment had been unanimously approved by the committee of chief prosecutors representing Britain, France, the U.S.S.R. and the United States.

It was intimated that defendants unable to secure the services of counsel would have counsel assigned to them by the Tribunal.

Chauffeur Repeats: "Hitler is Dead"

Hitler's chauffeur, Erich Kempka, still sticks to his story that Hitler is dead. Security officials who have been questioning Kempka said yesterday that all efforts to disprove his story have failed.

Kempka, in a statement, described how Hitler's personal servant, Sturmbannfuehrer Linge, and another man came out of Hitler's private room, carrying what appeared to be Hitler's body, wrapped in a grey army blanket.

"The head and body were completely covered, and no traces of blood or moisture could be seen; only the legs below the knees showed. The black, low-cut shoes, black socks, and black trousers which Hitler usually wore were visible.

"A few steps behind Linge came Reichsleiter Bormann, carrying Eva Braun in his arms. The body was not covered, and could be easily recognised. The left side of her dress appeared moist and darkened, presumably by blood."

U.S. Soldier Jailed For Fraud

Charles F. Noonan, a member of the 82nd Airborne Division of the U.S. Army, at Cork Circuit Court yesterday, was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment, to date from his arrest on August 18th, when found guilty of having obtained in August from Michael McHugh, cashier, Munster and Leinster Bank, Cork, £250 by means of a worthless cheque, and having attempted to obtain a further £250.

When Noonan was put forward it was stated that £195 had been recovered and returned to Mr. McHugh.

Cruiskeen Lawn

By Myles na gCopaleen

HOTFOOT on the news that the Eire Government of Occupation are considering the introduction of modern wireless broadcasting in this country, complete with studios, expert script writers, producers, etc., etc., comes another item of news that will gladden the heart of CIE, if it does nothing else. Hitherto, in connection with the Symfunny Concerts run at the Capitol by 2RN—Dr. Kiernan is doing an excellent job there, but he is hampered by red tape—the gallery was bookable. It appears that recently there was a conference of senior postmen in the G.P.O. and it was decided that the gallery must no longer be bookable. An Assistant Senior Postman (on his max., £600 by £10 to £610) pointed out that winter was approaching and that a queue would have to be arranged, otherwise the rain, wind, etc., would be rather pointless. As it was considered dangerous to annoy people who go to the parterre or circle—who would be delighted for a pretext to write to the papers, to show they attend the concerts—it was decided that the modest galleryites should stand in the rain. I again state my view that the bag of meal, the heifer and the haycock are valuable criteria for the evaluation of all factors constituting a problem in the Irish state service: I salute the agricolarian obsession with copper coins of the lower denomination, for there you have the seed of thrift. But . . . this petty urge of postmen to tyrannise! Alas! (No more will I say until we see what happens next time: then we may have to mention names).

There are one or two things about last Sunday's show which, however, must be said.

First, there is a viola player in the orchestra who wears a small blanket on his machine. Granted that the weather is getting cold, the thing looks a wee bit odd. I ask that player (no names) to cut the blanket (or file it, if necessary) in two.

Next, there are certain trumpet players and others who never miss a chance of scooting off if they have no parts in the piece being played. This annoys the orchestra's look as if it had had several teeth out. These people should stay in their places. After all, if the audience has to listen to the music, why shouldn't they? (Fair is fair).

Next, the business about the concerto. ('Business' is right too, in another sense). Beethoven's 4th Piano Concerto was the one originally advertised: the one performed was the 5th (the 'Empire'). Why? I do not know but I will give you a guess. The 5th was performed before, when my friend Rhoda Coghill gave the concert performance. It follows, therefore, that the postmen had the parts. It would cost money (of all things) to buy the parts for the 4th. Therefore the 5th — possibly Beethoven's most taxied, not to say hackneyed work—was performed. (Granted that Sir Philip Hanson has a hard job at the Treasury, must things be as strict as that?)

The pianist (not soloist, mind you—there is no soloist in a concerto) was Mlle. Jeanne-Marie Darré. Mlle. Darré is, I assume, a member of the F.F.I. Her onslaughts on the piano (a Steinway, incidentally—hated name) were most impressive, though not as impressive as her tender moments when there was stooping, brooding, a grave contemplation of the quays (for all the world like a CIE queue) plus a thing I haven't seen since I took Marie Lloyd to see Paderewski in the Albert Hall in 1899—gracefully bent hands coming up to shoulder level, poised for unerring descent. The piano stool had to be adjusted a few times. It is difficult to assess the pianism of players who do other things besides play the piano. (The violin wins here—a violinist, when unoccupied, can't do anything with his hands except hold his tools and stare).

There was a slight accident towards the end of the afternoon. Some Sibelius was accidentally split all over the auditorium, saturating a lot of people. What I object about that is the inane remark one hears on every side "Don't worry—Sibelius doesn't stain." Doesn't he?

Irish News in Brief

Lifeboat May be Withdrawn.—Unless certain repairs are made to Wicklow Harbour the lifeboat could not be launched within three hours of high tide, and the Institution would have to withdraw the boat. This was stated by Commander R. L. Stewart, of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution, at a meeting of Wicklow Harbour Board.

Film Unit in Dublin.—A small film unit, consisting of two actors and three technicians, has arrived in Dublin to complete, with shots to be taken here and in Killarney, the story of an American soldier's adventures abroad. Sergeant Bill Squires, of the U.S. Army, plays the soldier. The English girl, whom he meets and to whom he becomes engaged, is played by Miss Pearl Cameron. The unit has already shot a sequence at Collinstown Airport, showing the sergeant's arrival in Ireland.

Balbriggan Woman Killed.—Mrs. Elizabeth Eaves (78), of Hampton Street, Balbriggan, was knocked down by a lorry and sustained serious injuries from which she died.

Foot and Mouth Disease Outbreak.—An outbreak of foot and mouth disease has been confirmed at Chadshunt, Kineton, Warwick. The usual precautions, it is stated, have been taken.

Nolle Prosequi.—In the Dublin Circuit Criminal Court yesterday, it was announced that the State had entered a nolle prosequi in respect of charges against Richard O'Connor Somers (24), Randalagh road, Dublin, motor dealer, who had been charged with forgery and uttering a Registration Book for a motor lorry.

Co-ordination Lacking In Social Economy

No Government could legislate for a section of the people and could not consult a group regarding legislation for the country as a whole, Miss Roisin Ni Dhochartaig, M.A., said last night when she read a paper entitled "The Present Position of Vocational Organisation in Ireland," at the Catholic Social Week meeting in the Mansion House, Dublin.

The two striking factors that emerged from an examination of statistics were, the said, the surprising amount of organisation in almost every section of the country that existed, and the lack of co-ordination, which amounted almost to chaos. In spite of their number trade unions were competing for patronage and could claim to represent only one-half of the eligible workers. Revolutionaries were inclined to destroy entirely the system against which they revolted, and that resulted in the destruction of many good things that were the result of generations of effort and application.

Widow Seeks Custody of Her Five Children

THAT the differences between Mrs. Frost and her husband were not caused by religious disputes, but were due to her own conduct, which led to Court proceedings and eventually to a separation, was stated in an affidavit filed by Francis T. Russell, 21 Grattan street, Dublin, Secretary of Mrs. Smyly's Homes and Schools, who said that Mr. Frost, from the day that his son, George, was born, down to the day of his death, had insisted that all his children should be brought up in accordance with the doctrines of the Church of Ireland.

This was mentioned by Mr. M. J. Ryan, S.C., yesterday, when the President of the High Court, Mr. Justice Haugh and Mr. Justice Davitt heard affidavits read on an application on behalf of Mrs. Margaret Frost, Marlborough street Dublin, for an order to make absolute the trustees of Mrs. Smyly's Homes and Schools, to produce her five children, Charles Victor, Edward, Isobel, George and Joyce in Court.

The Court adjourned the further hearing of the application until next Monday, and directed that the children should be brought to them to be interviewed.

Mr. Ryan, who, with Mr. T. A. Doyle (instructed by Mr. James A. Connolly), made the application, read an affidavit of Mrs. Frost, in which she said that in 1930 she married Charles Frost, a member of the Church of Ireland, in St. Joseph's Church, Terenure, according to the rites of the Catholic Church. She was at that time a widow. Before the marriage, Mr. Frost, who had been a clerk employed by the Port and Docks Board, signed the usual undertaking to have the children brought up in the Catholic faith; but, after a separation in 1940, which followed differences about the upbringing of their children, he, contrary to a clause in the separation agreement, that the three children of whom he had been given custody should be placed in agreed schools, sent Charles Victor and Edward to the Bird's Nest, York road, Dun Laoghaire.

Shortly after the separation agreement had been executed she found herself unable to maintain herself and the three younger children, as well as the children of her first marriage, on the amount allowed to her, and she agreed to her husband taking them solely for their benefit. Her husband placed the children in the Birds' Nest.

SEPARATION AGREEMENT

Mrs. Frost stated that when she agreed in the separation agreement that the younger children should be brought up in the faith of the Church of Ireland, she did so because her husband insisted on that provision. After the children had been taken from her she went to work in England. When, on her return to Dublin last March, she was told that her husband had died on March 22nd she demanded custody of the children, but was refused.

Continuing, he said that Charles Frost, by his will, directed that his children be brought up in the faith of the Church of Ireland, and left all he possessed to the Irish Church Missions. That will was being contested by the widow. She had made arrangements should her application for a writ of habeas corpus prove successful, to have the boys sent to the St. Vincent de Paul Orphanage at Glasnevin, to have Isobel sent to the Sacred Heart Home, Drumcondra, and to keep Joyce, aged six, herself.

Mr. Ryan said that Mr. F. C. Russell, in his affidavit, mentioned that in the separation deed it was agreed that Mary Margaret (the eldest child, not subject to the present application), Charles Victor, and Edward should be placed in the custody of the father, and that they should be placed in a suitable school. The mother agreed that when she should be dead Mrs. Smyly's Homes, it was also agreed that Isobel, George and Joyce should reside with the mother until they were eight years old, when their education should be taken charge of by their father, and that they should be brought up in the faith of the Church of Ireland.

POLICY OF HOME

Mr. Russell stated that he was informed by Miss Bird, the assistant secretary of Mrs. Smyly's Homes, that on September 18th, 1940, Charles Frost handed her a letter signed by his wife in which his wife stated that she was handing over the three younger children to him, as she was unable to keep them. Subsequently these children were admitted to the Bird's Nest at the request of the father. The father, in accordance with the practice of the Home, had stated in his application that he desired his children to receive a Protestant education. The mother had agreed to this.

The affidavit further stated that Mrs. Frost resided in one room in a tenement house, and submitted that it would not be in the best interests of Joyce to remove her from the healthy conditions prevailing in the Bird's Nest to such a place and deprive her of the education and training she was now receiving. The trustees had never attempted to usurp the rights of the mother, and had never denied her reasonable access to her children. The children were accepted in the Homes at the urgent request of the father and with the full knowledge and acquiescence of the mother, and, they believed, her full approval.

In these circumstances, and having regard to the responsibility which the trustees accepted when they received the children, they submitted that they would not be justified in handing over the children to the mother unless and until ordered to do so by the Court.

Mr E. S. FitzSimon (instructed by Messrs. McCracken and Son) appeared for the trustees.

NO BRITISH REPRESENTATIONS ABOUT GERMAN INTERNEES

MR. O. J. FLANAGAN (Ind.) asked Mr. de Valera to state if any representations were made by the British Government, prior to the removal of German internees from Eire, and, if so, the nature of such representations.

Mr. DE VALERA—In accordance with international practice, internees should be repatriated as soon as possible after the cessation of hostilities. The initiative for the repatriation of the German internees was taken by the Irish Government. Arrangements had to be made with the British authorities for their transport and for their entry into Germany.

FOOD FOR EUROPE.—Replying to the same deputy, Mr. DE VALERA said that a certain quantity of foodstuffs had already been sent by the Government, through the International Red Cross Society, for distribution amongst the displaced persons, especially children, in greatest need in Central European countries, including Austria, Germany, Hungary and Poland. A further consignment was being sent at an early date for the same purpose.

"The Chairman of the Irish Red Cross Society," Mr. de Valera added, "has had conversations with the International Red Cross about the possibility of bringing children here from the areas mentioned, and these conversations are being continued with the representatives of the International Red Cross at present in Dublin. Owing, however, to the special difficulties of dealing with the occupied areas in question, it may be some considerable time before it can be stated with certainty that groups of children will be sent out of these areas to countries which are in a position to receive them."

Mr. FLANAGAN — Could the Taoiseach state if the Irish Government has been informed of any action which is taken by the British authorities to prevent some of the Irish food from being distributed in Germany?

Mr. DE VALERA—I have not got any information of the kind.

Travel Facilities.—Mr. DE VALERA informed Mr. Norton (Lab.), at question time in the Dail yesterday, that the number of new travel permits issued to male persons to go to Great Britain and the six countries for, apparently, employment, in respect of each of the years 1940 to 1944, and from January to September, 1945, were:—

1940, 17,080; 1941, 31,860; 1942, 17,300; 1943, 29,100; 1944, 7,726; 1945 (to Sept. 30), 10,334.

The numbers of females for the same years were:—8,884, 3,272, 14,440, 19,003, 5,890 and 7,287.

Pensions Bill.—Mr. E. CHILDERS, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Local Government and Public Health, informed Mr. Norton that it was hoped to introduce an amending bill before the end of the present session to safeguard, for the purpose of the Widows and Orphans Pensions Act, persons who emigrated to Great Britain to take up employment during the emergency and whose widows and children might not be qualified at present to receive benefit under the British scheme, and whose insurability might have lapsed under the Irish Acts.

Change-Over of L.D.F.—Mr. O. TRAYNOR, Minister for Defence, in reply to Dr. T. F. O'Higgins (F.G.), said that the fixing of a date on which the Local Defence Force in its present form would end and a new force begin had been receiving attention. He had grounds for the hope that the date for the change-over would be fixed about the beginning of the new year.

Replying to the same deputy, the Minister said he was not aware that any equipment required by the Local Defence Force was being disposed of by Army authorities.

New P.O. Buildings.—Mr. P. J. LITTLE, Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, informed Mr. Norton that the plans of the new central sorting office at Pearse street, Dublin, would not be ready for some time.

He informed the same deputy that working drawings, specifications, etc., for the proposed new post office and telephone exchange at St. Andrew street, Dublin, were in the course of preparation, but he was unable to say when tenders could be invited.

FOUR WINNERS FOR HENRY HARTY

THE Patrickswell trainer, Henry Harty, swept the decks yesterday at Limerick, when he saddled the winners of the last four races on the card. Each of his winners was ridden by a different jockey.

In the main event First of the Dandies sprang a surprise by winning easily from the odds-on favourite, Callaly. The winner, who was one of Henry Harty's three runners in the race, was ridden by a veteran jockey, A. Mackey, who has English experience, having ridden for Percy Woodland. First of the Dandies made every yard of the running. Good Gracious, dashingly ridden by the 7st. 10lb. apprentice, P. J. Doyle, challenged along the far side, but a bad mistake ruined his chances. At this stage Callaly was close on the leader's tail, but on jumping the last obstacle First of the Dandies drew away again and went on to win by ten lengths.

Henry Harty's three other winners were Cushnahouna Boy, Bremen's Bay and Mr. Clever.

THRILLING RACE.

Cushnahouna Boy won a thrilling race for the Delmege Chase; and Bremen's Bay passed Bilberry on the straight to win the Ardnacrusha Plate. The chase was one of the most exciting contests for some time. Cushnahouna Boy drew up to Pat Lacey a mile from home, and from that stage the pair raced stride for stride. Pat Lacey gained a bit at the last fence but Cushnahouna Boy drew level again. The pair raced locked together down the straight, and, with young Harty riding a powerful finish Cushnahouna Boy got up to win by a short head.

Mr. Clever came with a strong challenge in the straight to run the favourite, Offaly Prince, out of it in the concluding event.

NO AGREEMENT ON LINESMEN'S POWERS

The Management Committee of the Football League of Ireland met at D'Olier Chambers last night, when they received a deputation from the Referees' Committee of the Football Association to discuss the possibility of reaching agreement on the duties of linesmen in matches played under League auspices

The referees held that the present arrangement, whereby linesmen could only flag for touches and corner kicks was unsatisfactory, and a letter from the Referees' Association was read announcing their intention of ignoring the League's instructions and of refereeing in accordance with the rules as from November 1st next.

Following a lengthy discussion, the referees were invited to withdraw this letter, and the Management Committee undertook that its members would discuss the matter with their clubs and reach a decision at their November meeting.

NEW ZEALAND TOURING SIDE SELECTED

The New Zealand Army Rugby players went through their paces in their ninth and last trial match yesterday at Margate before the selectors decided upon the final 29, who, captained by the All-Black scrum-half, Major C. K. Saxton, will tour the British Isles this season. All the men looked in splendid trim, and, in the opinion of those in charge, will represent a combination at least as powerful as the 1935 All-Blacks team.

The forwards attain to the traditional New Zealand standard, powerful, heavy, and fast, with giants among their number such as the 16-stone J. Maclean and S. W. Woolley, and opposing packs can look forward to some gruelling times. The tour opens on Saturday next, when they meet Swansea.

T.D.R. Interest Reduction

The Treasury, it was announced yesterday, has decided to reduce the rate of interest on Treasury deposit receipts—which represented over 40 p.c. of Clearing Bank deposits against their total deposits of £4,898,000,000 last month—from 1½ p.c. to ½ p.c., as from October 22nd. Consequently, the Clearing Banks will have to reduce their buying rate for Treasury bills—they do not take them up direct—and their rate for day-to-day loans to the money market against Treasury bills from that date from 1 p.c. to ½ p.c. The Clearing Banks have decided to abolish payment of interest on current accounts—mainly paid on the larger traders' accounts—while deposit accounts will not bear interest for periods less than fourteen days, instead of seven days. The rate of interest paid by banks for fourteen days, or more, will be reduced from 2 p.c. to 1 p.c. No change in Bank rate is involved, nor in "tap" War Bonds interest.

Defendants Claim That Meetings Were Valid

The hearing of evidence was continued yesterday in the action of Michael J. Hennessy, Edenvale road, Donnybrook, Dublin, and three other members of the National Agricultural and Industrial Development Association, against the Association and the Federation of Irish Manufacturers, &c., challenging the validity, for lack of a quorum, of extraordinary meetings of the Association of March 14th and 15th, 1938. The defences deny that the meetings were invalid.

The further hearing was adjourned until next Tuesday.

In the course of his continued cross-examination, Mr. William Toomey, one of the plaintiffs, said that at the general meetings in 1942 and before that, the attendances were 10, 12 or 20 people, and that "they promptly elected themselves officers of the Association, and the ordinary members never bothered about it."

The evidence on behalf of the plaintiffs having concluded, Mr. J. A. Costello, S.C., opening the Association's defence, said that he would satisfy the Court that there was, in fact, a quorum present on the occasions in issue, and, if not, he would submit that it was a mere irregularity that could have been set right by having proper special resolutions passed at a later stage.

On one day two meetings had been held, one following the other, and before the second meeting three members had left, leaving 18 present.

At that meeting Mr. Childers, then secretary, drew attention to the fact that a quorum was not present, and the late Mr. Justice Meredith, who was there, gave his opinion that, as those who had left had signified their intention to vote for the resolutions before the meeting, the meeting could proceed.
